Special Fund Helps Special Patients

Maybe you've had a hip replacement and can't bend down to put on your socks and shoes. There are tools to help you, but you can't afford them.

Maybe you've been out of work because of cancer treatments, and have to decide between paying for your medicines or putting food on the table.

Maybe you're a Hospice patient living alone and need someone to call and check on you every day, but you can't afford to pay for Lifeline.

Maybe you think there's no hope, but then your CarePartners team tells you "You're Special."

For over 25 years, we've been telling patients they're special through the "You're Special" Fund. This fund helps CarePartners patients in crisis pay for the equipment, medications, and services that they cannot afford and insurance won't cover. With the recent economic downturn, the "You're Special" Fund has become more crucial than ever.

All requests for "You're Special" funding flow through Lisa Laney, CarePartners Director of Private Care Management. Lisa says, "Without exception the physical therapist, occupational nurse, or social worker will first explore traditional community resources to meet the needs of clients who cannot afford to purchase equipment or medications. Therefore, when I see a 'You're Special' request come across my desk, I know the patient would be without support if it weren't for the gift of this fund. Illness is demanding upon every fiber of a person's life. The additional angst that you cannot pay your electric bill, or buy medications, or buy a shower chair, or provide the most basic necessity of having heat, becomes a priority and complicates or jeopardizes recovery."

With the help of the "You're Special" Fund, patients have their needs met and regain their peace of mind.

"When I see a 'You're Special' request come across my desk, I know the patient would be without support if it weren't for the gift of this fund."

-Lisa Laney

Lisa Laney, MSW, CMC, helps connect CarePartners patients with the resources of the "You're Special" Fund.

The "You're Special" Fund is made possible through donations from employees, community members, and grants. The most popular option for support is through sustaining gifts given automatically once or twice a month.

To become a sustaining donor to the "You're Special" Fund call Abigail Clarkson at 828-277-4850 or email her at aclarkson@carepartners.org.
